(b.) To teach and publish: That the Great Charter underlying the Throne and organization of the British Commonwealth of Nations consists of the Brith or Covenant entered into between El Shaddai (God Almighty) and Abraham and Sarah, and confirmed to Isaac and Jacob, to the House of Israel, and in certain particulars to the House of David. That the Brith or Covenant entered into primarily with Abraham the Brith-Ish (which being interpreted into English means the Covenant-Man) includes as later developed: The title to immense territories of land as an everlasting heritage; the organization and everlasting perpetuation of national life founded upon a secured civilization; immunity from destruction by enemies; the Brith-Annia, or Covenant of the Deep or Rule of the Sea; the ordinances of Worship and Salvation; a national constitution not only immeasurably superior to any other code of laws, but absolutely perfect for such a world as this, and capable of universal application; the Virgin Birth and Redemptive Sacrifice of the Lord; the establishment of the Throne of David for ever; the return and reign of the King of Kings; the final triumph of God's purpose in Israel on this earth. That by principles of the Constitution given under the Brith or Covenant, human history has been directed and controlled to this day; and the divergence from it on the part of men and governments has been the direct cause of the confusion and suffering among the nations:

(g.) To adopt by-laws or regulations governing the admission of members and (or) branches into the Association, the termination of membership, the election of officers, the holding of meetings, and any other matters necessary for the conduct and pursuit of the objects and business of the association:

(h.) To promote the unity of all the British Israel associations, societies, branches, classes, and members in Canada, as nearly as possible upon a basis of voluntary organization and operation.
